

As we said earlier, The Seven Project is the event that comes to your town and never leaves. The reason it never leaves is that you are still there. The process of The Seven Project is not over when the event team packs up and leaves town. You're not finished. There is still work to be done.

- Sign up to be a campus missionary. Make a personal commitment to continue being an effective witness on your campus.
- Start a Bible club on your campus if there is not one there already.
- Be involved in following up on those who have accepted Christ as Savior.

If there is no club already, check out <www.yausa.com>. Click on "Campus Clubs" for information about how to start a club. Click on "Downloads" for dozens of meeting ideas. Youth Alive is one of many organizations that can help you establish a Bible club on your campus.

DISCIPLE MAKER

Jesus gave the ultimate command when He said, "Go and make disciples of all nations" (Matthew 28:19, NIV). Your job is not just to tell others about Jesus, but also to help them live out a relationship with Him. The article "Disciple Maker" explains how to use Alive in Christ to help a new Christian get firmly grounded in the basics of living for Christ.

Keep in mind, though, that the best way to help a new believer learn how to be a follower of Christ is to set the example yourself every day. Live so that you would not be ashamed to speak to these new believers as Paul did when he wrote to the Corinthians: "Follow my example, as I follow the example of Christ" (1 Corinthians 11:1, NIV). An effective disciple maker must first be a disciple.
